Immaculate conception. The historic designation of the Roman Catholic dogma and unfortunate fallacy invented by Pope Pius IX, Dec. 8, 1854, that Mary was born and preserved free from all stain of original sin. This is absolutely false and contrary to Scripture which declares that ALL have sinned (Rom. 3:23; 5:12-21), and to the fact that Mary herself claimed God was her Saviour (Lk. 1:47). Mary had a human father and was born in sin like all others. No statement in Scripture supports this fallacy

Law (516), L. of double reference, 42; f 554-1; l 586-4; p 572-4; 600-4; r 18-1*
L. of prophetic perspective - viewing events and speaking of them in the same passages without a definite explanation of a distinction between them as to time. It is like seeing the mountain peaks in one view, without seeing the valleys between them. For example, Isa. 61:1-2 pictures the 1st and 2nd advents of Christ in the same passage with only a comma dividing the statements of one from the other. From a casual reading it would seem that the recorded happenings would take place, one right after the other; but we know that such is not the case for there have been nearly 2,000 years already between the preaching of the acceptable year of the Lord, and the day of vengeance. Turning to Lk. 4:18-19 we see that Christ read this passage from Isaiah up to a certain point-including the statement about the acceptable year of the Lord. At that place He declared, "This day is this scripture fulfilled in your ears" (Lk. 4:21). Had He read the next part of the statement - and the day of vengeance of our God - He could not have said the passage was fulfilled that day. This law must be recognized in many prophetic passages, as in Dan. 2:39-45; 7:3-28; 8:3-25; 9:24-27; 11:2-45; Rev. 1:19; 4:1, and others. See 26 examples in notes above

Lord (7, 738), 8 Heb. words trans. Lord:
1 Yehovah, the Self-Existent or Eternal One - the Jewish national name of God or Elohim. It is trans. Jehovah only 4 times (Ex. 6:3; Ps. 83:18; Isa. 12:2; 26:4) and with combined names 3 times (Gen. 22:14; Ex. 17:15; Judg. 6:24). See other compound names, or Jehovah titles, 52. It is trans. Lord 6, 327 times out of 7,003 times the word Lord is found, and Lord's 106 times out of 115 times it is found in the O. T. Yehovah should have been consistently trans. Jehovah in all these thousands of places and not only in 4 Scriptures
2 Adon, Lord; Sovereign; Master; Owner. This word refers to God as Ruler and Owner of the earth. It is trans. Lord 207 times (see note m, Judg. 19:26); Lord's (only of man) 8 times (Gen. 40:7; 44:8-16; 2 Sam. 20:6; 1 Chr. 21:3; Isa. 22:18); and lords (only of angels and man) 4 times (Gen. 19:2; Dt. 10:17; Ps. 136:3; Isa. 26:13)
3 Adonay or Adonai, my Lord. This word refers to God in relation to the earth as Blesser, carrying out His purposes of blessing in creation. It is trans. Lord 415 times and Lord's 1 time
4 Yah, Lord. This is the same as Jehovah and is a contraction of that word. Yah is Jehovah in a special relationship to man as having become his salvation. It is trans. Lord 44 times and always in the book of Psalms except for Isa. 12:2; 26:4; 38:11
5 Gebyr, Master; Lord. Used of man as a lord in Gen. 27:29, 37
6 Shalliysh, an officer of third rank. Trans. lord of man in 2 Ki. 7:2, 17-19
7 Rab, captain; chief; great; lord; master. It is trans. lord of man in Dan. 1:10
8 Mare, Lord; master. It is trans. Lord of God in Dan. 2:47; 5:23, and of man in Dan. 4:19, 24
4 Gr. words trans. Lord:
1 Kurios, Supreme in authority; Controller; God; Master; Sir. It is trans. Lord 698 times; Lord's 15 times; and Lords 2 times in the N. T. and in nearly every case of Christ and God, f 7-4*
2 Rabboni, my Master; Lord. Trans. Lord of Christ in Mk. 10:51, and retained once without translation in Jn. 20:16
3 Kurieuo, Lord or Lordship, Rom. 14:9
4 Despotes, absolute ruler; Master; Lord, Lk. 2:29; Acts 4:24; 2 Pet. 2:1; Rev. 6:10

Omnipotent (1), all power, Rev. 19:6. God's infinite power must be sensibly understood as operating within the bounds of His own revelation of Himself. According to Scripture God has limited Himself to working within certain limitations in some realms. Perhaps, it is not so much a question of what He could possibly do, but what He morally allows Himself to do. For example, He cannot lie (Tit. 1:2; Heb. 6:18), which means that He is absolutely truthful and can be depended upon as being above lying. We say then that it is morally impossible for Him to lie. As to being able to utter words which are the opposite of truth, such is within God's power if He would Permit Himself to do so; but He will not and for that reason it is declared that He cannot lie. The same is ture in the exercise of other attributes of God. See 30 limitations of God, 638; and facts under the subject of God which give the true concept of Him, as the supreme Moral Governor of free wills, as revealed in His plan for man
Omnipresent, everywhere present. God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Spirit are all present where there are beings with whom they have dealings; but they are not omnibody, that is, their bodies are not omnipresent. All three go from place to place bodily as other beings in the universe do. We know this is true, for many scriptures speak of each person of the Divine Trinity, as follows:
1 God the Father. See a 10-1; c 34-4; h 67-1; and many facts under God
2 Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father. He came from heaven into the world as a person distinct from both the Father and the Holy Spirit - to live here, then return to heaven and the Father to be seated on His right hand, from whence He will come again. See Christ
3 The Holy Spirit. He is spoken of as moving upon creation (Gen. 1:2), coming into the midst (2 Chr. 20:14), descending from heaven upon Jesus (Mt. 3:16; Mk. 1:10; Lk. 3:21-22), and abiding with or departing from men (Jn. 1:32; 1 Sam. 16:14). He was to come into the world to abide among men (Jn. 14:16, 26; 15:26; 16:7-11)
Omnipresence then, is different from omnibody, and is governed by relationship and knowledge of God. Like the presence of someone being felt by another who is thousands of miles away, so it is with the presence of God among men (1 Cor. 5:3-4). See n 15-4; h 368-4; n 86-4*
Omniscient, all knowing. This also must be understood in a limited sense, the same as omnipotence and omnipresence. Many passages show clearly that God comes to know certain acts of free and sovereign wills, and He does not plan or try to know from all eternity past the infinite details regarding beings who are here now and others that will be brought into existence in all eternity to come. See u 2-4; q 6-1; m 15-4; h 67-1; h 68-1; b 232-4

On (1, 929), the sun. A man, Num. 16:1. A city of Egypt, Gen. 41:45, 50; 46:20. In hundreds of other places the word is used as an ordinary part of speech, Gen. 2:2; 4:15; etc.
Onam (4), wealthy, Gen. 36:23; 1 Chr. 1:40; 2:26-28

O. class to rebuke, 315*
O. command to stand fast in, 315*
O. way to think, 315*
O. in number, Gen. 2:21; 11:1; 3, etc.
O. in unity, j 206-1
One, two, or more in unity:
1 Evening and morning make o. day (Gen. 1:5, 8, 13, 19, 23, 31)
2 Adam and Eve o. flesh (Gen. 2:24)
3 Man has become as o. of Us (as each separate person in the Godhead - proving plurality of persons in the o. God, Gen. 3:22)
4 The people is o. (but not o. individual or person, Gen. 11:6)
5 The Lord (Jehovah) our God (Elohim, a plural noun) is o. Lord (Jehovah); that is, a unified Jehovah or Elohim, not o. in number as to persons (Dt. 6:4). There are two and three persons called Jehovah (Gen. 19:24; Ps. 110:1-5, notes) and God (280*). The Heb. for one here (Dt. 6:4) is echad which means united as o., as well as o. in number; and certainly its use in this passage means composite unity and not absolute unity. Elohim is unified, not divided; this is what is stated here and what should be so understood in Mk. 12:29-32; Rom. 3:30. When individuals of this Divine Unity are intended that is very clear, as in 1 Cor. 8:4-6; Eph. 4:4-6 where three persons are singled out and referred to in the same since as we refer to three men
6 Two sticks become o. stick when joined together (Ezek. 37:16-19)
7 Two nations will become o. nation when joined together (Ezek. 37:22)
8 God made o. of two individuals - man and wife (Gen. 2:24; Mal. 2:15-16; Mt. 19:5-6; Eph. 5:31)
9 I and My Father are o. (Jn. 10:30). Yet the Father is greater than the Son (Jn. 14:28), and greater than all (Jn. 10:29)
10 Gather together in o. all the children of God (Jn. 11:52)
11 That they all (many individuals) may be o. as We (God the Father and Jesus the Son) are o. (Jn. 17:11, 21-23)
12 They (thousands of disciples) were of o. heart and o. soul (Acts 4:32)
13 Many members (and many bodies) in o. body (Rom. 12:4-5; 1 Cor. 12:12-28)
14 Many minds of o. mind (Rom. 15:5-6)
15 Any two bodies become o. body when joined together (1 Cor. 6:16)
16 Two spirits become o. spirit when joined together (1 Cor. 6:17)
17 Many persons become o. bread and o. body by partaking of o. bread (1 Cor. 10:17)
18 Ye are all o. in Jesus (Gal. 3:28)
19 Gather together in o. all things in heaven and earth (Eph. 1:10)
20 Made both (Jews and Gentiles) o. to make o. new man (Eph. 2:14-16)
21 Ye (all believers) stand fast in o. spirit and o. mind (Phil. 1:27; 2:2)
22 He who sanctifies and they who are sanctified are all of o. (Heb. 2:11)
23 Be ye all of o. mind (1 Pet. 3:8)
24 These three (individuals - the Father, the Word or Son, and the Holy Ghost) are o. (1 Jn. 5:7). The only sense in which three can be one is in unity - never in number of persons. The disciples, as in Jn. 17:11, 21-23, for instance, were not to become o. person, o. individual, or o. being with only o. human body, o. soul, and o. spirit. They were to become o. in unity, consecrated to the same end to which God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Spirit are consecrated - the highest good of all. They were to retain their own bodies, souls, spirits and personalities as individuals. So it is with the three Divine Members of the Divine Trinity - the separate persons in Elohim always retain their own personal body, soul, and spirit, yet they are one in perfect unity. This always has been the case and always will be, as proved on p. 280*

Poets (1), Acts 17:28

Poetry of the Bible. Poetry of the Hebrews is more than expression in rhythmical form; it is both deeply truthful and earnestly religious. Much of it is figurative; and one must seek to distinguish between the essential truth expressed and the external imagery under which it is set forth. The poetical books of the Bible are Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, Song of Solomon, and Lamentations. Much of the prophetical books is poetical, as well as portions of the N. T. (Lk. 1:46-55, 68-79; 2: 29-35; etc.). Hebrew poetry has no metre or versification; it consists of rhythm of sentences, thoughts, and sentiment, rather than rhythm in sound as in English poetry. It may be called parallelism; it has a certain correspondence, either in thought or language, or both. Sometimes a second expression is little more than an echo of the first; sometimes it excells the first in force and beauty, or adds a new idea to heighten it, the main idea being expressed in contrast with each other. This is why the English translation has so much of a poetical cast

7 varieties of Hebrew poetry:
1 Epic -God's dealings (Ps. 78; 107; Ex. 15:1-21; Judg. 5)
2 Lyric -personal religious sentiments (Ps. 27; 34; Ex. 15; 1 Sam. 2:1-10; Lk. 1:42-45, 46-55, 68-79)
3 Didactic -duties of life (Proverbs)
4 Elegiac -sorrowful themes (Lamentations; 2 Sam. 1:19-27; 3:33-34)
5 Idyllic -pastoral or rustic scenes (Song of Solomon)
6 Dramatic -action and movement (Job)
7 Alphabetic -lines and passages beginning with the Heb. alphabet (Ps. 119), or as seen in the repetition of certain statements at intervals (Ps. 42:5, 11; 107:8, 15, 21, 31; Amos 1: 3, 6, 9, 11, 13)

1 To give promised land to Abraham and his seed forever (Gen. 12:1 -7; 15: 18 -21; 17:8). This is referred to using the word sware 30 times (Gen. 24:7; 26:3; 50:24; Ex. 13:5, 11; 33:1; Num. 14:16, 23, 30; Dt. 1:8; 6:10, 18, 23; 7:13; 8:1; 9:5; 10:11; 11:9, 21; 26:3; 28:11; 30:20; 31:20, 21, 23; 34:4; Josh. 1:6; 21:43, 44; Judg. 2:1)

2 That none of the old generation coming out of Egypt should enter the promised land except Joshua and Caleb (Num. 14:23 -24; 32:10 -11; Dt. 1: 34 -35; 2:14; Josh. 5:6; Ps. 95:11; Heb. 3:11, 18)

3 That Moses should not enter the promised land because of sin (Num. 20:12; Dt. 4:21)

4 That He would not forget the covenant made with Israel (Dt. 4:31)

5 That He would keep His part of the covenant with Israel (Dt. 7:12; 8:18)

6 That He would bless and multiply Abraham (Gen. 12:1 -3; Heb. 6:13)

7 That Christ should be a priest forever after the order of Melchizedek (Ps. 110:4; Heb. 5:6 -10; 7:1 -21)

8 That He would deliver Israel from all their enemies and that they would serve Him forever (Lk. 1:73)

Symbol, An object, animate or inanimate, standing for or representing something else, as a dove symbolizing peace; a lamb, meekness; a fox, craftiness; a wolf, hunger and greed; a lion, kinglines; and a sceptre, power. Symbol is a broader term than type; all types are symbols, but all symbols are not types. While types are generally used in religion, symbols are used widely in other realms. A type is more a true picture of what it pre-figures, while a symbol is more a suggestive sign. A type always refers to something future, while a symbol can be timeless and may represent something past, present, or future. Water baptism is a symbol of an inward work of grace in partaking of the benefits of the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus Christ, but not a type of such an experience. The passover is both a type and a symbol, commemorating one event and pre-figuring another

Symbols of the Bible:

There are a number of definite symbols in Scripture, such as the image of Dan. 2, the beasts of Dan. 7 and 8; Rev. 13 and 17, the horsemen of Rev. 6, and the women of Rev. 12 and 17. These and others must be rightly interpreted, in order to see the exact truth conveyed

Interpretation of symbols:

1 Names and words of symbolic passages must be understood literally

2 They always denote something essentially different from themselves

3 The resemblance, more or less minute, is traceable between the symbol and the thing symbolized

4 As in the case of parables, riddles, fables, types, allegories, and other forms of human expression in Scripture, the meanings must be obtained from the interpretations found in the Bible itself. For example, Dan. 2:31-35 is explained in 2:37-44; the tree of Dan. 4:4-18 in 4:19-27; the four beasts of Dan. 7:1-13 are explained in 7:17-27; the ram and he-goat of Dan. 8:1-4 in 8:19-26; and the beast of Rev. 13: 1 is explained in 13:18; 17:8-17. So it goes with all Bible symbols. The divine explanation is all that is necessary to understand

Abraham justified before being circumcised, Rom. 4:11-12; Gen. 15:6
Circumcised Christians not to seek to erase circumcision, 1 Cor. 7:18
Uncircumcision (16). True circumcision is that of the heart, not the flesh (Rom. 2:25-27); and it comes by faith (Rom. 3:30), like justification. Abraham received justification while in uncircumcision (Rom. 4:9-10; Gen. 15:6); and David received justification while circumcised, but not through circumcision (Rom. 4:6-13). The experience of both men proves that it is by faith apart from circumcision. A Christian is not to be circumcised only as a religious rite, for it has no spiritual value (1 Cor. 7:18-19; Gal. 2:7; 5:6; 6:15; Eph. 2:11; Col. 2:13; 3:11)

Will (3, 769), Scores of "I will's" in the Bible prove God has a will of His own (Josh. 1:5; 3:7; 7:12; 8:18; Judg. 2:1-3; etc.); others prove man also has a will and is a free moral agent (Gen. 13:9; 14:23; 18:5; 21:24; 22:2-8; 23:13; 24:3-58; 27:9-12, 41-45; Ex. 3:3; etc.). "I will" is used by man over 200 times in Psalms alone. God recognizes man as having his own will. See Lev. 19:5; 22:29; Mt. 16:24; Lk. 9:23-24; Jn. 1:13; 1 Cor. 7:36-37; 1 Pet. 4:3; 2 Pet. 1:21; Rev. 11:5-6; Rev. 22:17. Angels also have will powers (Gen. 19:2; Ex. 23:21; Isa. 14:12-14; etc.), as well as demons (Mt. 12:43-45; Lk. 11:24)

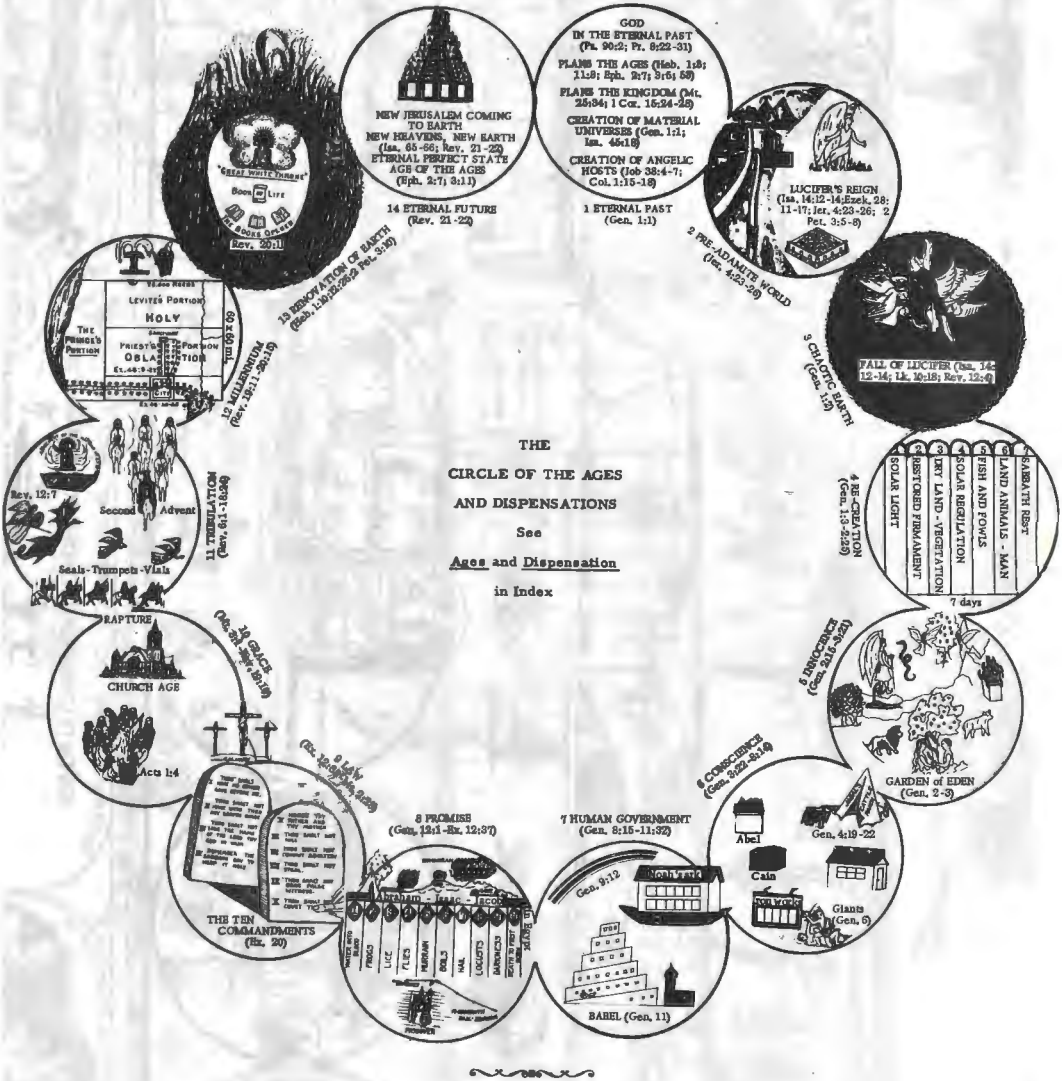
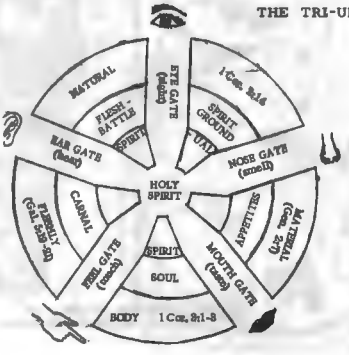
HOW TO MARK THE PROPHECIES



If a person should like to tell at a glance, on any page of his Bible, whether a prophecy has been fulfilled or is yet to be fulfilled, a simple way to mark the text is as follows:

All future or unfulfilled passages may be marked with a yellow line at the top, bottom, and on both sides of the prophetical verses
All past or fulfilled prophecies may be marked with a blue line at the top, bottom, and on both sides of the verses
As a guide to the student of prophecy, all the prophetical passages are marked with a star at the beginning of a prophecy, and the marginal notes state whether the prediction or predictions have been fulfilled or are yet to be fulfilled



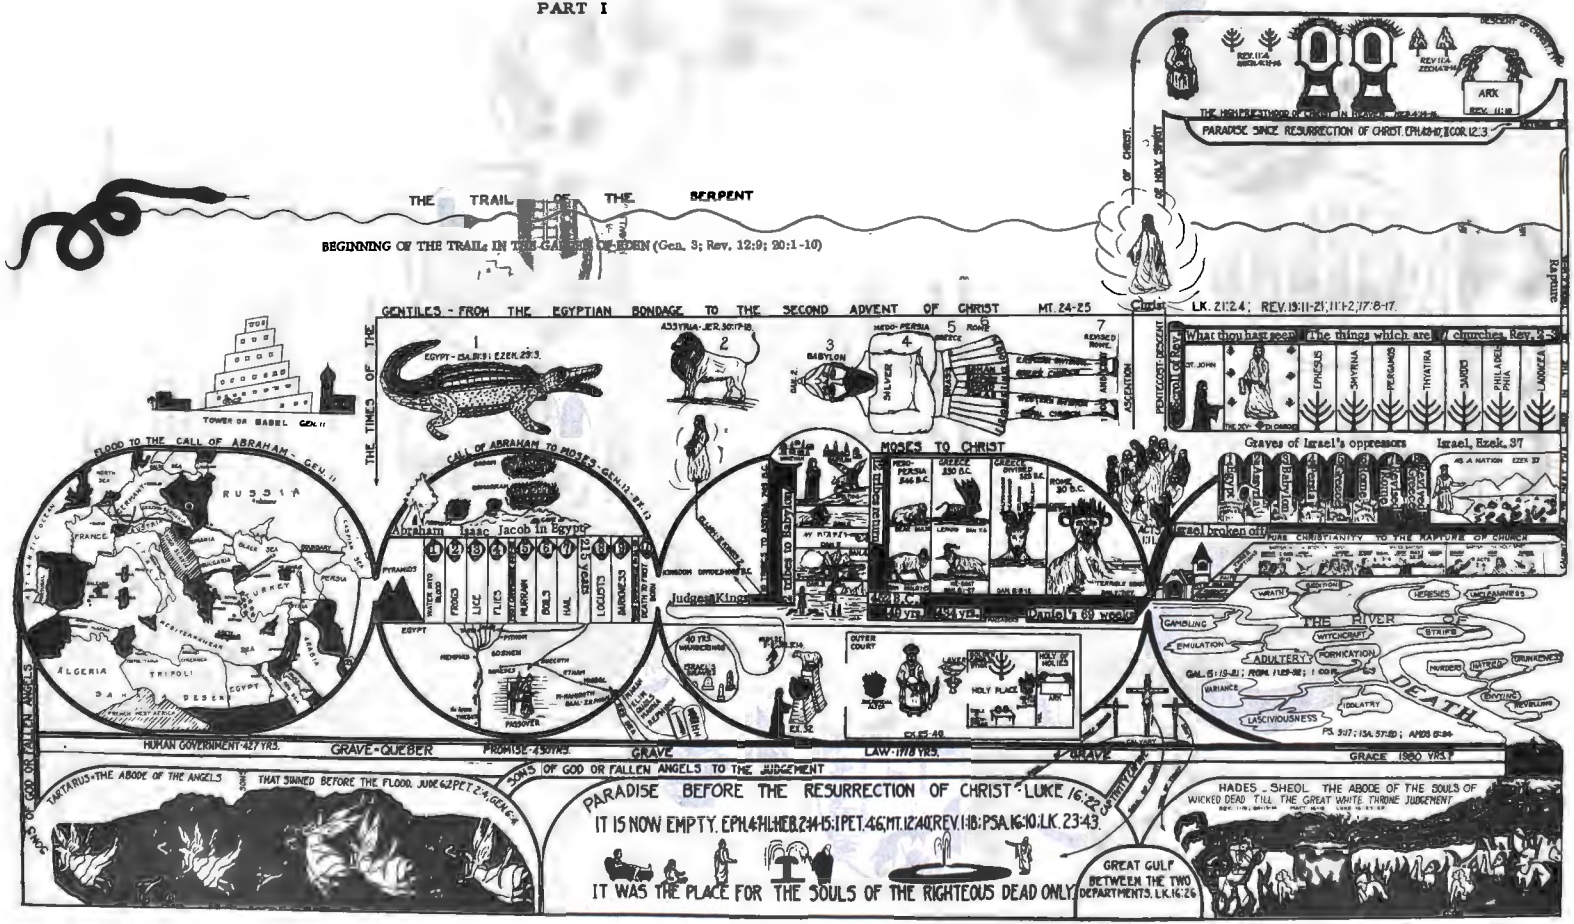
Charts and Maps

THE TRIUNE GOD - GOD ALL IN ALL (1 Cor. 15:24-28)

THE TRI-UNITY OF MAN (1 Th. 5:23; Heb. 4:12. See Man in Index)

While the tri-unity of God refers to three separate and distinct persons in the Godhead, each having His own personal spirit-body, soul, and spirit, the tri-unity of man refers to the three separate and distinct parts of one person - his body, soul, and spirit (1 Th. 5:23; Heb. 4:12)

The body of man is earthly, fleshly, and material. It is the house in which the soul and spirit dwell. At death the inner man - the spiritual part, made up of the soul and spirit - leaves the body to continue in a state of full consciousness either in heaven or hell (Jas. 2:26), at which time the body goes back to dust again. In the resurrection, the body will be made immortal (1 Cor. 15:35-54; Phil. 3:21). See Immortality and Hell in Index



The soul of man is the part which feels: the seat of the emotions, passions, appetites, and desires (see Soul in Index). It may be considered the battle-ground of the flesh and spirit (Rom. 8:1-13; Gal. 5:16-26)

The spirit of man is the part which knows: the seat of the intellect, will, and mind - all mental faculties (1 Cor. 2:11). The spirit and soul are to be understood as separate and distinct parts of the inner man; and these are to be understood as separate and distinct from the breath (see p. 619; and Spirit in Index)

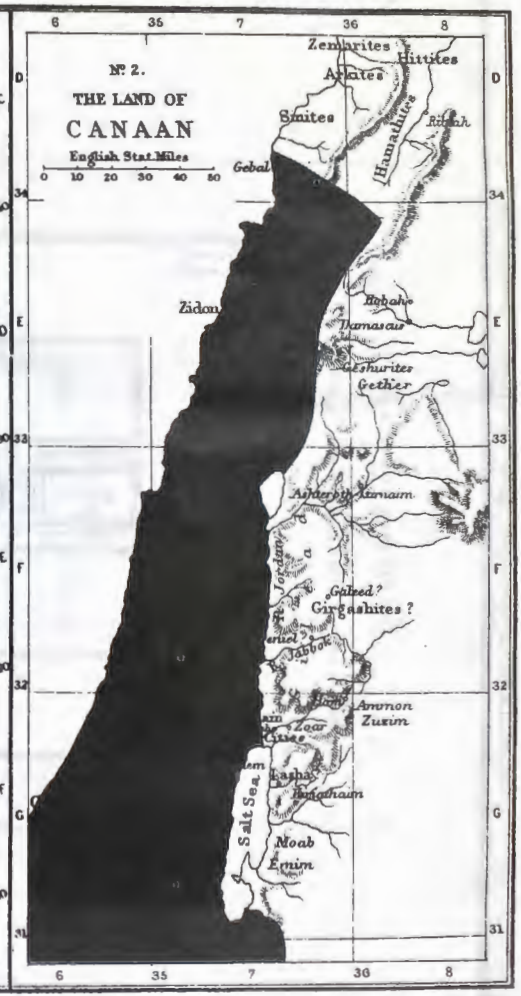
THE MILLENNIAL "OBLATION" AND "SANCTUARY" (Ezek. 40-48)

The above is a representation of the Sanctuary and its great enclosure, called "the profane place" (p. 848). The whole series of courts and buildings are located in the midst of the priests' portion of the 60 x 60 square miles, called "the holy oblation" (see map 5-a). The temple is only one of the buildings located in the Sanctuary, so we cannot speak of the whole series as the temple

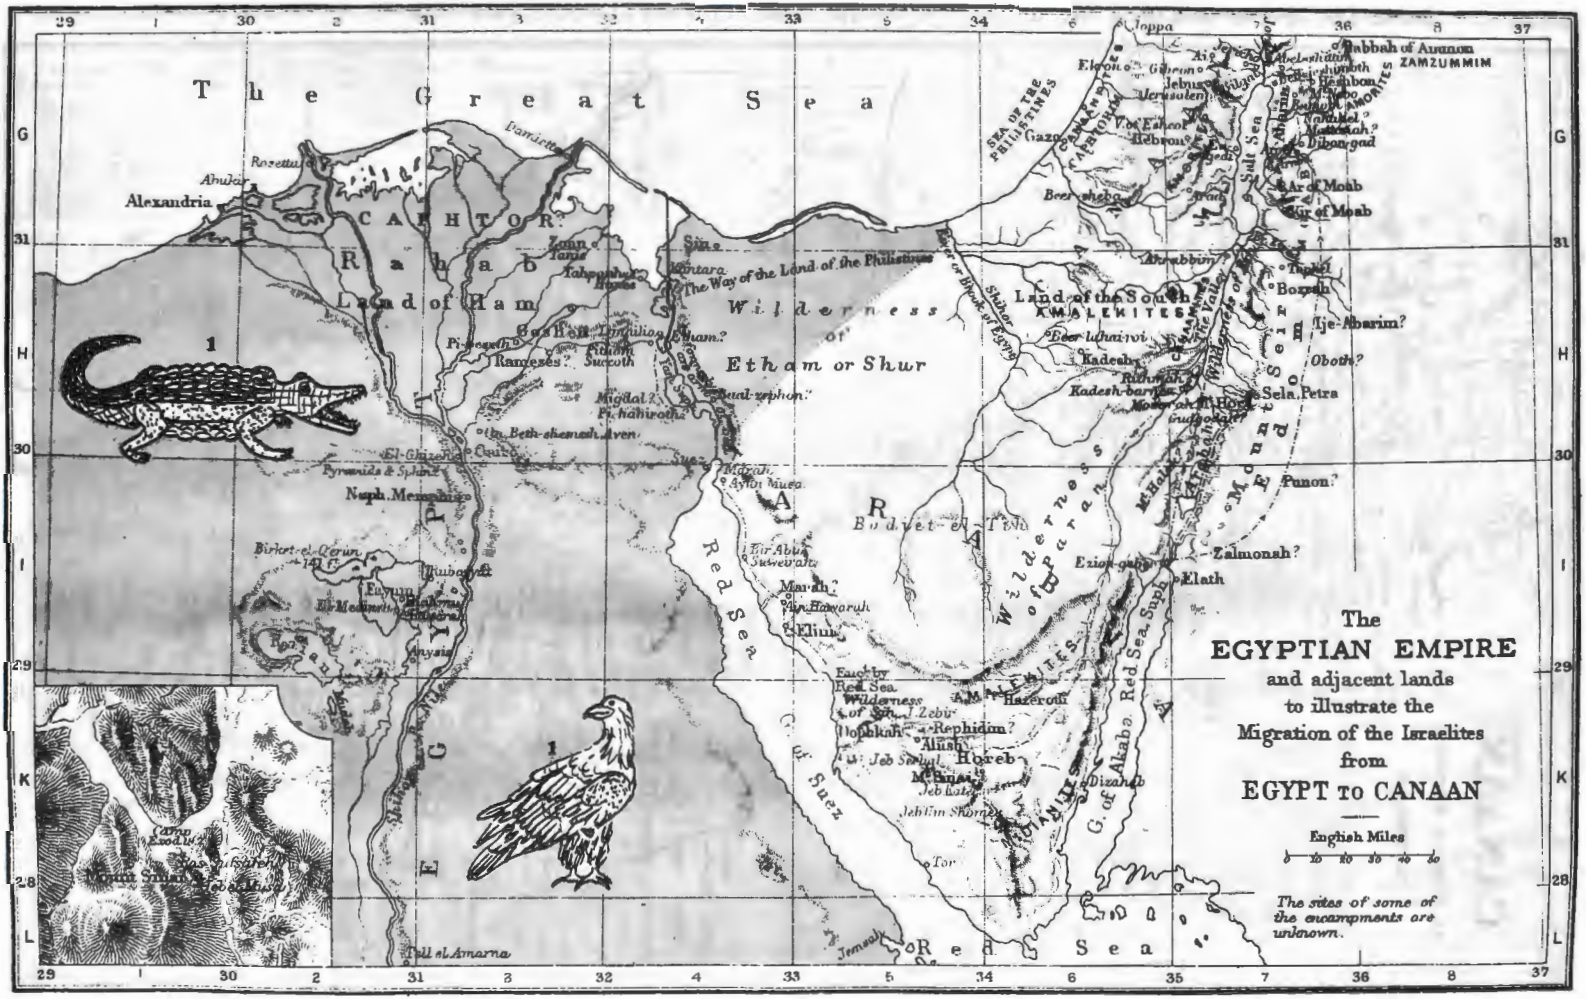
From the south side of the altar and out from the temple itself a river will flow eastward through the whole series of walls. Its course will be southward through the city of Jerusalem, after which it will part into two. From there one river will flow southeast into the Dead Sea and the other southwest into the Mediterranean Sea (Ezek. 47)

The walls of the squares will be 12 1/2 ft. thick and 12 1/2 ft. high
The altar of sacrifice will be located in the very center of the fourth square
A highway will run from the south gate to the city of Jerusalem, about 12 miles away (see map 5-a)



FIVE SQUARES OF THE OBLATION AND SANCTUARY:

1 The most outer court: 500 reeds, 6,250 ft. square (a 848-1)
2 The outer court: 500 cubits, 1,041 ft. square (a 848-1)
3 The inner court: 300 cubits, 625 ft. square (a 848-1)
4 The altar court: 100 cubits, 208 ft. 4 in. square (a 848-1)
5 The temple area: 100 cubits, 208 ft. 4 in. square (a 848-1)



The temple and altar areas make 100 x 200 cubits, 208 ft. 4 in. x 416 ft. 8 in.
The temple will be the capital building of Christ - where He will reign over Israel forever (Ezek. 43:7)

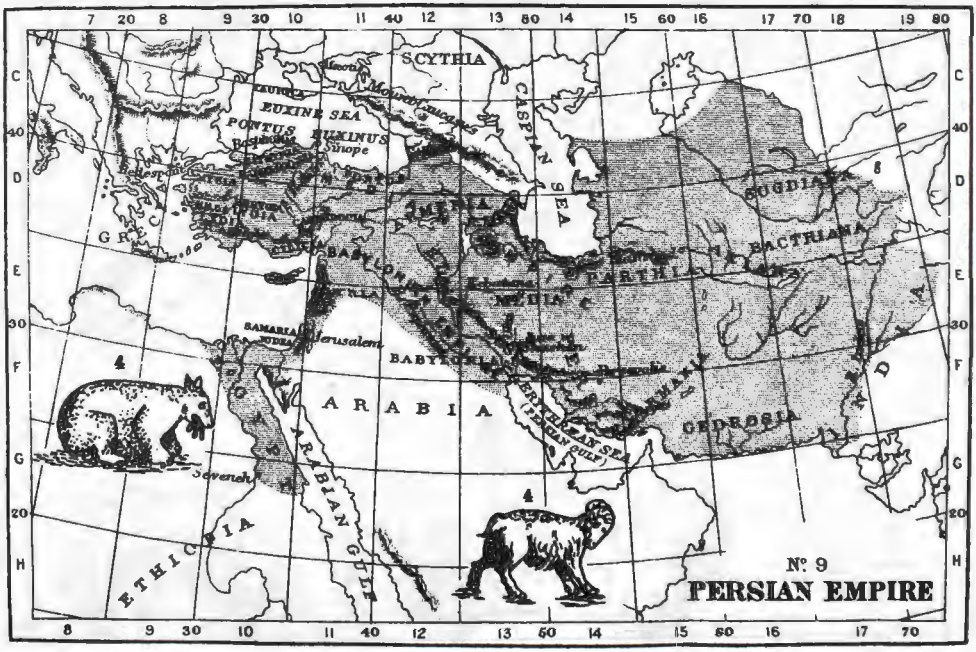
The Egyptian Empire - the first world empire to oppress Israel in the times of the Gentiles. Symbolized by a crocodile (c 582-4; c 585-4; Isa. 51:9; Ezek. 29:4), and a great eagle (Ezek. 17:1-24). Egypt oppressed Israel now and again for more than 1,000 years before the Assyrian oppression

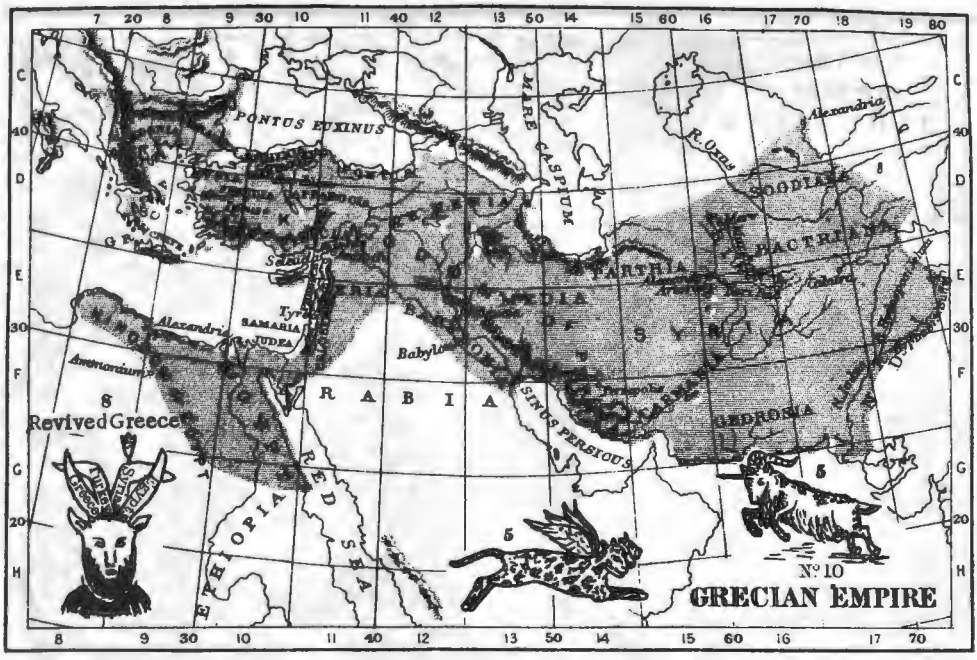
The land of Canaan at the time of the division of the land to the 12 tribes of Israel (Num. 21:21-35; 32:1-42; Josh. 12:1-22:34)

This map shows the extent of the empire of David and Solomon - the greatest kingdom of Israel in all history. The small map (5-a) shows the division of the land to the 12 tribes and the holy oblation as in the Millennium (Ezek. 45:1–48:35)

The two kingdoms of Israel - Judah and Ephraim - after the division of the kingdom at the death of Solomon (1 Ki. 12). The division continued for 260 years - until the captivity of the 10 tribes to Assyria (2 Ki. 17)

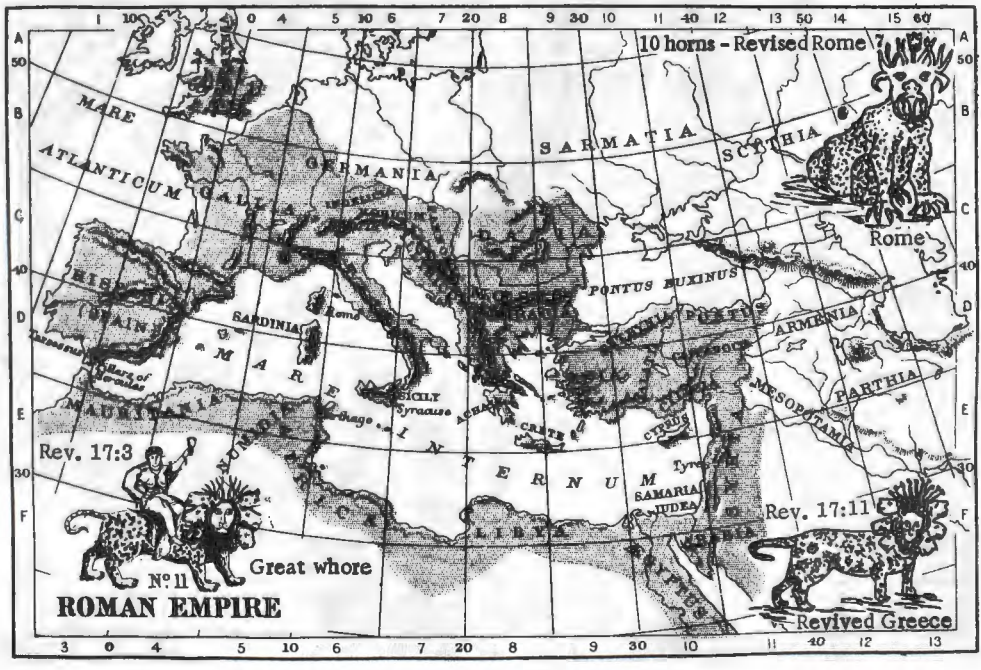


The Assyrian Empire - the second world empire to oppress Israel in the times of the Gentiles, Symbolized by a lion (Jer. 50:17-18; c 582-4).
Assyria oppressed Israel now and again for 200 years before the Babylonian oppression



No 7

Above: the Babylonian Empire - the third world empire to oppress Israel in the times of the Gentiles. Symbolized by the head of gold (Dan. 2:38), a lion with eagle's wings (Dan. 7:4), and by a great eagle (f 793-4; e 795-1)



Below: the Medo-Persian Empire - the fourth world empire to oppress Israel in the times of the Gentiles. Symbolized by the breasts and arms of silver (Dan. 2:39), the bear (Dan. 7:5), and a ram (Dan. 8:3-4, 20)

Above: the Grecian Empire - the fifth and eighth world empires to oppress Israel in the times of the Gentiles, Symbolized by the belly and thighs of brass (Dan. 2:39), the leopard with 4 heads and 4 wings (Dan. 7:6), the rough he-goat with a notable horn (Dan. 8:5-9, 21), and the he-goat with 4 horns (Dan. 8:8-9, 21-23)

Below: the Roman Empire - the sixth and seventh world empires to oppress Israel in the times of the Gentiles, Symbolized by the 2 legs of iron (Dan. 2:33, 40), the non-descript beast (Dan. 7:7-8, 17), the 10 horns (Dan. 7:23-24; Rev. 12:3; 13:1; 17:8-17), and the beast of Rev. 17
